Redefining Futures at Collins Aerospace

Collins Aerospace is changing the way we approach corporate social responsibility to look not only at what we can do here and now, but to consider the impact we can make on future generations around the world. We call it Redefining Futures. This bold new approach embodies our company's commitment to solving some of society's toughest challenges.

To increase our impact locally and globally, we are aligning our volunteer activities, civic leadership and corporate giving around four pillars:

- Inspiring our youth to pursue careers in engineering and technology
- Investing in our current and future workforce
- Strengthening our communities
- Protecting our environment

To further our mission, we partner with organizations around the world who align with these pillars and our focus on STEM Education, Workforce Development, Community Vitality, and Sustainability. If your organization's mission aligns to our focus, we welcome you to submit a request for support.

Our 2020 grant application process will be open from March 9 through October 31, 2020.

Requests for corporate contributions are accepted throughout the year. Grant requests of $25,000 or less, will be reviewed continuously with decisions typically being rendered within 60 days of submission. Grant requests over $25,000 will be reviewed two times per year.
